EDUCATION GUIDE

Your guide to the best schools and universities in Berkshire and Buckinghamshire

Berkeley
Designed for life

Introduction

Welcome to our guide to education in the counties of Berkshire and Buckinghamshire.

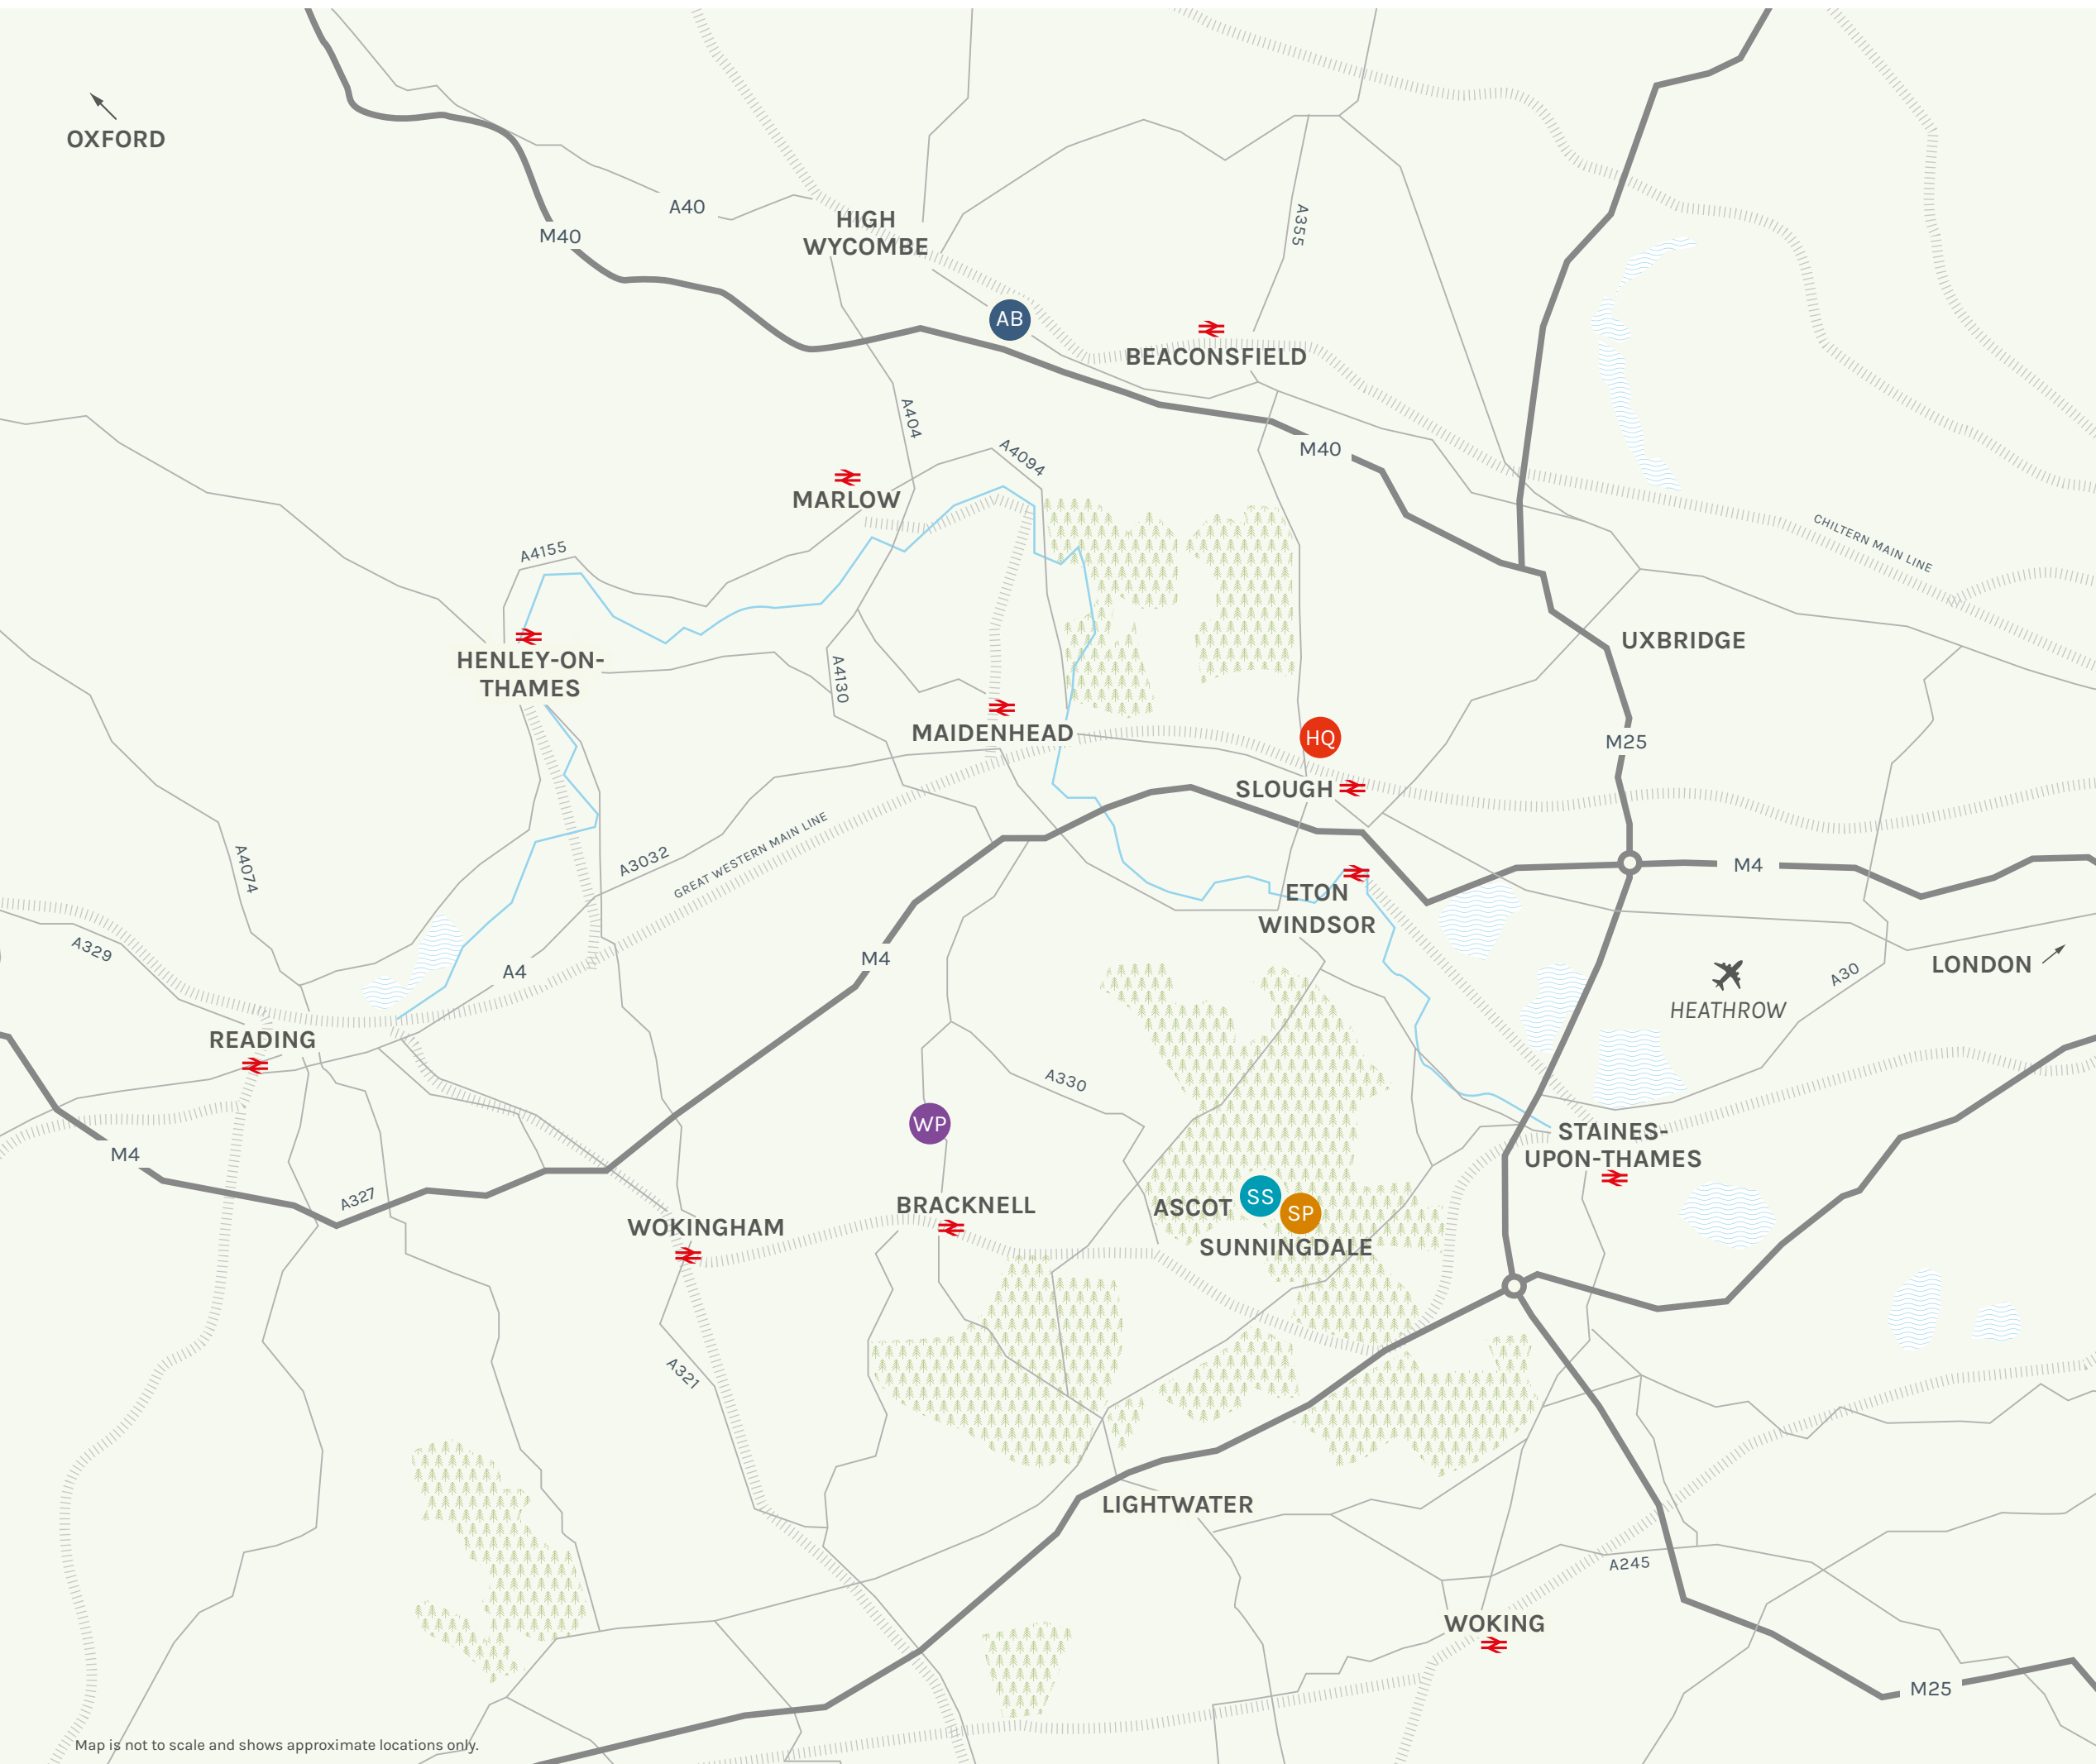

These are some of the prime areas in the UK for high performing schools for all age groups, from nursery through to university. They are the location of some of the most renowned public schools - including Eton and Wellington Colleges - and arguably the best grammar and state schools, particularly at secondary level.

Entry to state-funded schools is usually from a designated catchment area, defined by the local authority. Independent schools often (though not in all cases) select students following an entrance examination.

Buckinghamshire is one of the few remaining counties to use the 11-plus exam system to select the most able pupils for its excellent grammar schools.

The information in this booklet is intended to be a general guide to the schools, colleges and universities in the area. Admission to a particular school cannot be guaranteed and will depend on several factors, including where you live and your child's academic ability. Please contact the schools directly for more information.

Life in Buckinghamshire and Berkshire

The jewels of south-east England, Buckinghamshire and Berkshire are counties with a huge amount to offer – great schools, easy commuting and an excellent choice of housing.

Buckinghamshire and Berkshire sit side by side to the west of London and boast some of the most beautiful countryside and picturesque towns in southern England. They are also blessed with an abundance of excellent schools, many rated 'Outstanding' by Ofsted and ISI.

Berkeley has chosen these counties to build some of its most attractive and successful developments, blending quality homes, parks and public realm with great facilities. Each development has been carefully located to maximise convenience – close to direct train routes to London and Reading, and excellent shopping and entertainment facilities – making these counties the ideal lifestyle choice.
